The next project on the horizon is a day school for mentally and physically challenged children. Again the local community is providing the land and the local government is willing to provide the on going maintenance and salaries of teachers, aides, bus drivers and maintenance personnel. In place we currently have trusted locals getting estimates and commitments from local laborers, contractors and suppliers.

The Foundation does not have any paid employees. All aspects of running the organization are completed by a volunteer staff. All funds raised through donations or fundraisers go directly to building and maintaining the projects.

There are more than 80 women living under the care of the Sr. Superior, SSHJ Convent, Annaikarai, Turinaveli District, Tamil Nadu, India. The seven permanent Sisters at the convent currently provide limited housing and food, as well as basic clothing and other needs for the women, who have no other place to turn.

These are children who are driven to the streets, because of their mental or physical infirmities. They find their way to this sanctuary of love and rehabilitation.

Admission to the Mercy Home is open to parentless, abandoned, destitute, and neglected ones; those who are physically and mentally challenged – all need love, care and protection.
